

WHO WE REALLY ARE. NLS-TECHNOLOGY HSS “METATRON”.

V.I. Nesterova

Corresponding member of the Academy of medical and technical sciences

General Director of the Institute of Practical Psychophysics

What we seem to be – is an image projected by us into the outside world, the result of our consciousness making this or that impression on others and maintaining the already established concept of us. It's a disguise that we put on for others.

Appearance is how we want to look in the eyes of others. And essence – is the state of being in which we stay when not interacting with people and objects at different points in time and space.

Our personality cannot realize itself without a reminder from the outside world. We do not dare to show our true face to the world and therefore pretend to be someone else. We create and memorize an automatic program designed to protect our weakness and deep emotions, which represent our mental level. And it is this deep essence that determines our state of health and the initial oscillations of the body at the anatomical and cellular levels. And the first step on the way to change oneself – is to put subconscious programs, that operate the habitual “I am”, into the sphere of consciousness.

Diagnostics with the hardware-software system “Metatron” allows you to evaluate the mental level of a person objectively, identify deep subconscious programs and bring them into a zone of awareness and change. We discover ourselves with the help of the HSS “Metatron” and switch from the process of survival to the process of creation.

Having received the initial information about our body and deep emotions, we decide and form intentions to achieve the desired reality, our thoughts become clear and concrete, and feelings adapt to them. As a result, we see changes in the biochemical environment of a body, the neural structure of a brain (strengthening of old synaptic connections and formation of new ones happens) and even a change in genetic structures.

It is possible to establish a connection with the higher consciousness only from the standpoint of the renewed consciousness. This mysterious energy has many names: Qi energy, divine consciousness, quantum of life force, cosmic energy or higher forces.

Whatever name we prefer, we are talking about a limitless source of energy that feeds us (from both outside and inside) throughout life and gives us the power to create. One must resonantly match this energy.

NLS-diagnostics, having identified our subconscious programs, can ensure this resonant matching, making us the architects of our health and standards of living.

Most notably, our health does not depend on a doctor or a healer. First of all, it is determined by the integrity and harmony of our life in all its spheres. As we learn to live a whole life, remaining harmonious at all its levels – in creativity, work, family, love, as well as in relation to the ecosystem of the planet – a continuous process of self-healing of body functions and regeneration of damaged structures will go on inside ourselves.

Stay healthy!